Rondebosch Golf Club

Rondebosch Golf Club's 18-hole course is considered a 'must-play' Cape Town course amongst golfers. Situated only ten minutes from Cape Town's city center, with magnificent views of Devil's Peak and Table Mountain, the course is a popular choice for local and foreign visitors. Since its establishment in 1911, the club has built a solid tradition, which is upheld by its loyal membership. The even balance of members and visitors makes for a welcoming, warm & friendly environment. Bar and Bistro offerings provide superb value; take a turn out of the afternoon traffic and join us on the upstairs deck for a beer and a pizza while the sun sets – the view is very special. Careful management has ensured that the course maintains its excellent condition all year round. Rondebosch Golf Course is a challenge to the serious golfer but is also accessible to the less experienced player.

<https://kingdavidmowbraygolfclub.co.za/>

One of Cape Town's grand old clubs, Mowbray celebrated its centenary in 2010. It's hosted seven South African Opens in its time, so if you're looking to play a course with a bit of history and tradition then this is a good choice. The course is a beautiful parkland course with great views of Table Mountain and an unbeatably convenient location. Mowbray is a great place to play if you're not getting on with your driver, because it offers a lot of short risk-and-reward holes.

Stellenbosch Golf Club

Stellenbosch Golf Club celebrated its centenary in 2004. This, the 4th oldest Golf Club in South Africa, changed from a 9 hole golf course to the current 18 hole championship lay-out in 1953. This magnificent golf course has hosted some of South Africa's most prestigious golf tournaments, including the 1999 South African Open and 5 South African Masters tournaments. Situated at the foot of the majestic Helderberg mountains on the outskirts of Stellenbosch, a town that is also home to one of South Africa's most revered universities. Stellenbosch Golf Club offers golfers an immaculate golf course, complemented by a warm, friendly and welcoming atmosphere. Although in the midst of Stellenbosch town some of the holes are bordered by the characteristic vineyards of the winelands area whilst others surprise the golfer with breath taking vistas of the surrounding mountains and town. A parklands golf course that meanders through the large trees that frame most holes and where every hole seems distinct and memorable. Stellenbosch Golf Club is a must for every golfer.
